Legislative Update

Regulatory Update Comprehensive Changes to Overtime White-Collar Exemptions Imminent

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has been reviewing the U.S. Department of Labor's (DOL's) proposed changes to the Fair

College Relations Alberta Rosburg, PHR 507-457-1193 aarosburg@merchantsbank.com

Diversity & Workforce Readiness Advocate Carrie Kollasch-Roberts 507-474-2832 C.Kollasch-Roberts@peerlesschain.com Labor Standards Act's (FLSA's) overtime regulations since May 5, 2015. Once OMB finalizes its review, which could happen at any time, a proposed rule will be made public and available for review and comment.

While the details of the FLSA proposal are not public, the Obama administration is expected to make changes to the salary basis level. Currently set at $455 per week, the salary level under the proposed rule is likely to be raised substantially, possibly to between $655 and $1,000 a week according to recent news reports. In addition, the rule is expected to change the duties test, possibly implementing a California-style requirement that otherwise exempt employees may spend no more than 50 percent of their time performing non-exempt work or run the risk of being reclassified as non-exempt – thus making them eligible for overtime.

We need to be very concerned about the impact that changes to the overtime regulations will have on our organizations and employees. It is clear that any new rules in this area will result in dramatic changes for workplace and compensation structures.

Your HR voice will be needed to effectively communicate the HR profession's concerns to DOL. SHRM is planning a robust advocacy strategy during the comment phase of this effort, providing SHRM state councils and chapters with the opportunity to sign onto its comments and providing sample language to individual SHRM members to submit comments to the agency.

When DOL last updated the overtime regulations in 2004, the agency received over 75,000 comments to the proposed regulations and spent 13 months reviewing them before publishing the final rule. It will be important to provide DOL with robust input on this proposal so that the agency fully understands the impact on our organizations and employees.

SHRM Comments to IRS on ACA's Cadillac Tax

Beginning in 2018, "excess" health care coverage (defined as any coverage that exceeds a statutory dollar limit that is revised annually) will be subject to a 40% excise tax known as the Cadillac Tax under health care reform.

On May 15th, SHRM submitted comments addressing specific methods suggested by the IRS to calculate costs and focused on maintaining maximum flexibility in determining the best way to value coverage. SHRM also suggested that certain types of coverage not be included in the calculation – such as retiree-only plans, as they tend to have higher costs.

SHRM will have additional opportunities to weigh in on the excise tax as the agencies plan to issue an additional notice focused on calculation and assessment of the excise tax and later will issue a comprehensive proposed rule for public comment.

Capitol Hill Update House Rejects Troublesome Federal Contractor Amendment

Great news in the U. S. House of Representatives, by a vote of 186 of 237, blocked an amendment strongly opposed by SHRM that could have resulted in the debarment and blacklisting of federal contractors found to have violated the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). This amendment would have impacted companies of SHRM members doing business with the federal government if they had been found to have violated any provision of the FLSA – regardless of whether it was intentional or not.

Thanks for your HR voice - we were heard!
